Okakura Kakuzō

Part II: Tea With Isabella

In The Book of Tea, Okakura Kakuzō writes, "The afternoon tea is now an important function in Western society. In the delicate clatter of trays and saucers, in the soft rustle of feminine hospitality, in the common catechism about cream and sugar... the Worship of Tea is established beyond question."

OUR TEA PACKAGING

Our teas are packed in a variety of gram-weight sizes, including a sample size that yields approximately 3-6 cups of tea. Samples provide a great opportunity to try our teas and find new favorites.

Our silver poly-foil packets are heat-sealed to preserve freshness. Smaller sizes are resealable with a convenient zip-lock closure. When ordering the largest size packets (-H and -K), we recommend dispensing a portion of the tea into a small canister, which can serve for daily use. Select teas are also offered in a plug-top British style tea tin (-T). We suggest ordering only the amount of tea that will be consumed in 3-6 months.

We will gladly personalize your tea packet with your name or the name of your gift recipient. This personalization is free of charge and adds a wonderful personal touch to your tea.

A Note to our Valued Customers:

In this issue of our Upton Tea Quarterly, we continue our series on Okakura Kakuzō — focusing on his career and friendship with Isabella Stewart Gardner, a philanthropist and patron of the arts. The Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum’s courtyard is featured on this Quarterly’s cover and is located just down the road from us in Boston. We invite you to enjoy reading while sipping on our 35th anniversary tea, Sun Moon Lake Tea. This tea is the first in our anniversary teas series this year. We look forward to introducing three more special anniversary teas with each season. Stay tuned! As always, we are grateful to our Valued Customers for your continued business and support.

Happy Tea Drinking...

✦ SUN MOON LAKE TEA (RUBY #18)

Produced from the unique Ruby #18 cultivar, developed by cross breeding a wild Formosa tea varietal with a Burmese/Assam strain, this outstanding black tea hails from the Sun Moon Lake region in Nantou County, Taiwan. The long, dark, wiry leaves yield a complex, hearty liquor with a velvety smooth mouth feel. The fragrant aroma reveals layers of cinnamon, raisin, fig, vanilla, and plum, which harmonize with notes of bread pudding, baked apple, and a subtle malty hint in the full-bodied cup. A lingering caramelized brown sugar note provides a complement to a crisp snap of clove in the finish. Steep longer for deeper flavor and a stronger cup. The perfect tea to celebrate our 35th anniversary, it comes in a tin adorned with a commemorative label. We hope you enjoy this premium addition to your tea shelf!

Valued Customers Reviews

“There is no other tea company out there that does it as well as you guys. Since I saw your ad in the Smithsonian years ago, I have been talking about you and handing out old catalogs to friends who just don’t understand the difference that great loose-leaf tea makes. Keep up the good work!” – Susan Keleher Depriest from CA

“I have enjoyed your teas so much over the years. I began ordering shortly after Tom started the company. I recommend you to all of my tea drinking friends!” – Katya Hazel from CA

“Upton teas are the best, and I absolutely loved the article about The Book of Tea. I have since bought several copies of The Book of Tea to give as gifts.” – Elynne Hering from CO

“You guys are the easiest company to order things from. My family and I all love your teas!” – Michael Houlihan from WI

TEAS OF INDIA
Located in northeast India, the Darjeeling district produces the famous “champagne of tea.” Just before spring arrives each year, the tea plants awaken from their winter dormancy to produce the highly anticipated first flush harvest. Prized for their heady aromatics and sparkling gold color, the flavor ranges from delicate and floral to rich and lively with a pleasant astringency. Hints of tropical fruit, honey and corn silk add complexity to complement these vibrant flavor profiles.
SINGLE-ESTATE FIRST FLUSH DARJEELING TEAS
NORTH TUKVAR ESTATE FIRST FLUSH SFTGFOP1 CL (2023 DJ-2) DARJEELING Located near the border of Sikkim, the North Tukvar Tea Estate has been producing superior teas since it was first planted in 1884. This outstanding 2023 first flush Darjeeling tea offering was plucked on March 11th at an elevation of 2,000 feet. An abundance of downy silver tips decorates bold leaves of variegated olive greens, which produce a rich golden amber cup with a sweet floral/fruity aroma. A smooth, round mouth feel supports a flavor profile bursting with notes of tropical fruit and melon. This loose leaf Darjeeling tea’s finish lingers with a palate-awakening crispness reminiscent of biting into a red apple.		TD217S Sample $7.75	TD217 50g $30.25
HILLTON ESTATE FIRST FLUSH FTGFOP1 CL (2023 DJ-9) DARJEELING An herbaceous aroma is enhanced by a subtle floral perfume and sweet hints of brown sugar, which sets the stage for the rich, invigorating character of this 2023 first flush Darjeeling. A silky smooth mouth feel embraces notes of spring flowers and hints of tropical fruit in the light amber cup. In the finish, a crisp bittersweet note is balanced with lingering notes of honey. A tea lover’s tea!	TD220S Sample $5.25	TD220 50g $20.25	TD220D 100g $38.50
VICTORIA’S PEAK ESTATE FIRST FLUSH SFTGFOP1 (2023 EX-1) DARJEELING Named after Queen Victoria, the Victoria’s Peak garden is a division of the renowned Steinthal Estate. In this 2023 first flush Darjeeling tea offering, premium loose leaf black tea leaves in rich tones of olive green are laced with silvery tips. A full, lively mouth feel enhances the sweet floral character, which is complemented by juicy notes of pineapple and tropical fruit. Nuances of corn silk and honey linger long into the crisp finish.		TD223S Sample $8.50	TD223 50g $33.75
BALASUN ESTATE FIRST FLUSH FTGFOP1 (2023 DJ-7) DARJEELING The bold, meticulously crafted leaves of this 2023 first flush Darjeeling yield a lively cup with a rich, silky mouth feel. The candied floral aroma whispers of orange blossoms and a light herbaceous nuance. With notes of tropical fruit and flowers, the flavor profile epitomizes “springtime in a cup.” This exceptional offering finishes on a crisp citrus-like note, balanced with a lingering sweetness.	TD224S Sample $7.75	TD224 50g $31.25	TD224D 100g $59.50
PUTTABONG ESTATE FIRST FLUSH FTGFOP1 CL (2023 DJ-7) DARJEELING First planted in 1852, the Puttabong Tea Estate is notable as one of the first tea gardens in Darjeeling. With a sweet floral aroma reminiscent of a blooming spring meadow, this 2023 first flush Darjeeling tea selection invites you to take your first sip. Bold, dark-olive leaves, sprinkled with downy silver tips, produce a light amber-gold liquor that delights the palate with its fresh, buttery smoothness and classic, honeyed floral flavor. A smooth, clean finish completes a memorable Darjeeling tea experience.	TD219S Sample $9.00	TD219 50g $36.25	TD219D 100g $69.00

FEATURED SINGLE-ESTATE FIRST FLUSH DARJEELING TEA

 ROHINI ESTATE FIRST FLUSH MOONLIGHT FTGFOP1 (2024 EX-1) DARJEELING ‘JETHI KUPI’

 Plucked on February 2, 2024, this exemplary first flush Darjeeling tea is referred to as ‘Jethi Kupi,’ an auspicious title given to the earliest first flush harvests at the Rohini Estate. Bold tea leaves with silver-sage tips produce a pale amber-gold cup rich with the freshness of a spring morning. A pronounced sugary sweetness, like a sugar cookie, envelops the buttery smooth liquor and aroma, fragrant with notes of cornsilk and vegetal hints. Notes of spring flowers, reminiscent of lavender, bloom as the cup cools, accented by hints of fresh spring greens. A smooth, lingering finish completes a memorable tea experience, sure to leave no doubt as to why it is referred to as the “champagne of teas.”

FEATURED SINGLE-ESTATE NILGIRI TEA

 KAIRBETTA ESTATE SFTGFOP1 2024 ‘WINTER FROST’ NILGIRI

 With its fresh floral character and complex flavor, this early 2024 ‘Winter Frost’ Nilgiri black tea is the perfect spring cup. The aroma is redolent with sweet vegetal notes, accented by hints of vanilla honey and spice. The bright amber-gold liquor is full and rich with a creamy smooth mouth feel. Layers of vanilla, honey, sweet hay, and a whisper of umami complement the pronounced floral notes. The finish lingers with a pleasing citrus astringency. With a flavor profile very similar to a first flush Darjeeling, this has quickly become a staff favorite.

TEAS OF NEPAL

Situated high in the Himalayas, Nepal has a climate similar to that of the Darjeeling region of India. As such, Nepal teas are often compared to pricier Darjeeling teas. Nepal black teas are rich and inviting, with flavor profiles similar to Darjeeling teas — fragrant, flowery first flush and rich, muscatel second flush. Our Nepal teas were all grown in the rolling hills of the eastern Ilam district.

HIMALAYAN SHANGRI-LA SFTGFOP1 NEPAL
Our Nepal black tea selection from Shangri-La is a beautiful mix of dark brown leaves and flecks of small green leaves, decorated with silver tips. The bright fruity/floral aroma hints of citrus and sweet baked goods. The rich amber cup has a medium-bodied profile with notes of pear, melon, and a honey sweetness that lingers in the finish.

FORMOSA GABA OOLONG
Japanese researchers created GABA tea serendipitously in the 1980’s. Wanting effective methods to preserve tea, not fully oxidized leaf was exposed to nitrogen. The glutamic acid inherent in tea was transformed to Gamma-Aminobutyric Acid, or GABA for short. This selection is notable for its broad and interesting flavor profile, with notes of mango, peach and guava. The cup has a creamy body with a pronounced, lingering sweetness.

MOZAMBIQUE BLACK TEAS
The Republic of Mozambique is located on the southern coast of Africa. A land of untouched beauty with an economy based largely on agriculture, its fertile soil and temperate climate make it ideal for organic tea cultivation. At an elevation of approximately 4,000 feet, the lower slopes of Mount Namuli are home to the many tea plantations. The tea is plucked by hand and processed, both C.T.C. and orthodox, at three factories with world-class equipment. Sustainable agricultural practices include bio-composting and fuel from renewable eucalyptus forests and hydroelectric plants. Tea cultivation in Mozambique provides a livelihood to over 5,000 of the local populace. These premium teas are produced by a community working for a better world, one cup at a time.

TEAS OF CEYLON
Ceylon — or modern-day Sri Lanka — has one of the world’s oldest tea empires. Scottish tea planter, James Taylor, introduced the first tea plantation to Ceylon in 1867, where the teas thrived in the cool, humid climate. The tea-growing regions of Sri Lanka are clustered mostly among the mountains of the island’s central region and its southern foothills. Like the great wine-growing regions of France, the tea country of Sri Lanka is divided into seven strictly defined districts, each of which is known for producing teas of a particular character. Each district presents a unique combination of climate and terrain that leaves its mark on the tea it produces.

Okakura Kakuzō

Part II: Tea With Isabella

by Stef S.,
Tea Consultant

*It is a chilly November evening, 1904, in Boston, Massachusetts, and cold radiates from the frosty glass windowpanes of an art studio. There is no better time for a cup of tea. Signaled by the soft, low whistle of the kettle, Okakura Kakuzō sets about preparing Matcha. He is an art historian, not an initiated tea master. However, there are few traditional art forms Okakura did not study during the esteemed Tokyo education of his youth, so today he plays the role of one beautifully. He is demonstrating Chanoyu, the Japanese Tea Ceremony. It is unlike anything his guests have ever seen, his simple whisking of a frothy cup of green tea a far cry from these turn-of-the-century Bostonian socialites' opulent porcelain teacups and petit fours. Still, the familiarity of the ritual strikes them. In The Book of Tea, Okakura Kakuzō writes, "The afternoon tea is now an important function in Western society. In the delicate clatter of trays and saucers, in the soft rustle of feminine hospitality, in the common catechism* about cream and sugar... the Worship of Tea is established beyond question." Of all the attendees, the most captivated spectator also happens to be perhaps the most important woman in the room, 64-year-old "millionaire Bohemienne" and famous art collector Isabella Stewart Gardner of the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum of Art (featured on our Quarterly cover). So, a legendary friendship begins, founded on a mutual interest in art, culture, and, of course, tea.

Okakura traveled to Boston when his devotion to Asian art and culture afforded him the opportunity to work for the Museum of Fine Arts. He was first employed as an expert in Chinese and Japanese Art, and later as a curator. His responsibilities ranged from attending events to giving lectures to procuring rare pieces. Of paramount importance was Okakura's goal to preserve and promote Japanese art and culture. To accomplish this mission, he needed to establish a relationship with the art community abroad. How ironic that Boston would become his base for operations and primary residence in the United States! The site, where thousands of pounds of fine tea were cast into Boston Harbor during the infamous 1773 Boston Tea Party, welcomed the author of The Book of Tea with open arms. When Okakura arrived on the art scene in Boston in 1904, it was Isabella Stewart Gardner's world. While the city was a hub for all manners of well-known writers, artists, collectors, and scholars at the turn of the 20th century, it would be difficult to name a more iconic Bostonian of the time than her.

A local celebrity, Mrs. Gardner was a highly intelligent and well-educated woman. Numerous trips abroad with her late husband Jack to countries spanning the globe fueled Isabella's curiosity and hunger for adventure. She was drawn to the higher education community of Cambridge and the Back Bay area where she lived. An avid learner, she first began collecting rare books on her trips, followed by prized art. As a collector, Isabella was serious about collecting the best, rarest, most striking and personal art she could find. Her collection included works by Vermeer, Rembrandt, Degas, and Matisse. When her museum first opened in 1903, its layout was unique and modern. Isabella enjoyed contrast and nuance, intentionally presenting seemingly discordant works of art together. She meticulously ordered select contemporary works to be hung next to centuries-old paintings or displayed in the same room as masterpieces. To this day, her collection remains in her museum for the public to enjoy just as she arranged them. She had a reputation for being a bit headstrong. In a time when women were not allowed to vote, Isabella courageously made space for herself in an academic field dominated by men. She occasionally even enjoyed shocking the public by doing things perceived as unbecoming of a lady of her stature. According to one story, a younger Isabella commissioned a painting of herself wearing a short-sleeved dress and unveiled it at a large social event. Victorian Boston was scandalized that she would show so much skin above her elbow.

In some ways, a friendship between Okakura and Isabella seems like it would have been unlikely. Okakura valued tradition while Isabella rejected it. But they were both world travelers who were fascinated with art. Despite his position as curator of the Museum of Fine Art, Okakura did not advise Isabella on collecting pieces for her museum. There were many art forms for Okakura to promote apart from paintings and pottery. Chanoyu itself was one such art. At the time, many of the individuals who were dedicated to studying and promoting the practice of the Japanese Tea Ceremony were primarily concerned with collecting the associated teaware. Okakura saw Chanoyu as a performance art, focusing more on the tea experience than collecting the handcrafted tools. And he did perform! He preferred traditional Japanese dress to Western attire and enjoyed leaning into the expectations of his esteemed circle of art patrons who were at times puzzled by his preferences for traditional Japanese customs. His poetry writing, melancholy demeanor, and razor-sharp wit lent to his public image of mysterious art genius.

At the time, most upper-class women found themselves in charge of keeping house. Kindred spirits, they too were performing, putting their best foot forward to present their families to society. Trends relating to things like food, home decor, and fashion were most frequently set in motion by women because they had a say in planning these aspects of life for their households. It was for this influential audience that Okakura presented the tea ceremony.

Apart from Matcha, it is impossible to say for certain what varieties of tea they shared because they did not keep a record of what was served. It is hard to imagine that the proper Boston ladies would have neglected to invite Okakura to afternoon tea to demonstrate their hospitality. Black tea with cream and sugar in the English fashion was all the rage.

In 1905, Okakura delivered a lecture at the Museum of Fine Arts that addressed the cultured upper class of Boston women directly. "Ladies, I know that this appeal to you will not be in vain... in this city of Emerson and Longfellow, you should set the personal example of venerating the beautiful." It is appropriate that mementos of Okakura Kakuzō are displayed at the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum, which also showcases photographs, autographs, and mementos of Emerson and Longfellow. In more ways than one, Okakura's legacy is on show beside the greats of his time.

Okakura passed away in 1913, but the friendship that blossomed between him and Isabella Stewart Gardner endures, reflected today in her museum. In the "Blue Room," among other important pieces of work, you will find a display case called the "Okakura Kakuzō Case," featuring pictures of Okakura and notes penned by him. To be included in her collection among the great masters and contemporary geniuses of Isabella's time is a high honor. According to the museum's website, the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum celebrates Okakura Kakuzō each May for Asian Pacific American Heritage Month. In this way, he is still part of the Boston art community today.

We hope you have enjoyed our two-part series on Okakura Kakuzō, art historian, father of teaism, and the author of The Book of Tea. Inspired by the memorable friendship between Okakura and Isabella, we invite you to explore our selection of Japanese teas on pages 32-33 as well as our collection of Green Teas From Around the World on the next page.

GREEN TEAS FROM AROUND THE WORLD

 IDULGASHINNA ESTATE OP1 GREEN ORGANIC CEYLON

From the Uva district of Sri Lanka, this organic green tea offering has long, well-twisted leaves that produce a pale golden liquor with a smooth mouth feel. The light, sweet aroma is earthy with mineral nuances. The herbaceous cup has a stone fruit sweetness and a clean finish. This is a great choice for those who enjoy a less vegetal flavor.

 JAPANESE FUKAMUSHI CHA ORGANIC

This organic offering was grown using the Saemidori cultivar in Kagoshima prefecture, located on the island of Kyushu. Both the leaf and cup have a deep, dark green color and heady, rich aroma. The exquisite liquor has sweet, vegetal notes, a brothy mouth feel and pleasing, light astringency. The leaves are typical of the Fukamushi (deep steam) style, with both larger and small leaf pieces.

A PERFECT GIFT FOR ANY TIME OF YEAR.

One of the most frequently asked questions that we receive is, “What does the string of letters listed after the name of my favorite tea mean?” Our Valued Customers have long requested that we include an explanation in our quarterly catalog decode the enigmatic “tea nomenclature,” and we are glad to oblige.

Due to a lack of information on the subject, there is great confusion over one of the simplest of tea terms, OP (Orange Pekoe). Contrary to popular opinion, Orange Pekoe does not refer to a particular flavor, or even to a specific variety or quality or tea. Orange Pekoe is nothing more than a designation of leaf size.

As a result of the manufacturing process, the final product is composed of leaf particles of varying sizes. Because the finer particles steep quickly, the tea is sifted into lots of uniform leaf size. Teas designated OP are composed of larger leaf particles or whole leaves that will not pass through a sieve of a particular gauge. BOP (Broken Orange Pekoe) designates a grade that is finer than OP. Grades finer than BOP are called fannings, PF for Pekoe Fannings, and the smallest particles are referred to as dust. Dust grades are used primarily in teabags.

Other letters are often appended to the grade of tea to produce a baffling list of designations such as SFTGFOP1 (Super-Fine Tippy Golden Flowery Orange Pekoe, grade 1). While there is a general correlation between acronyms and the general appearance and character of the tea, there is no strict correlation between the acronyms and the value or flavor of the tea. While these lengthy acronyms appear on nearly every chest of single-estate tea, the real value of the tea is in its appeal to the palate.
